

Experience Sundays in the Square...

Check out some of the cool Sunday programs held in Market Square in 2008.

Doggie Days

Sunday, July 27 & Sunday, August 17, 2008

Doggie Days with Animal Friends, 10:30 a.m. - 12:30 p.m.

Pet owners and their canine companions had a ball in Market Square with special pet-friendly activities. Animal Friends had behaviorists on hand and tailored activities to the dogs who were there, such as:

- Interactive & athletic - Easy agility equipment - e.g., weave poles, low jumps and tunnels; games "musical dogs" - musical chairs with hula hoops and a doggie wade pool.

Berry Festival - Sunday, June 29

As part of the American Eagle Outfitters Tour of Pennsylvania on June 29, the Pittsburgh Downtown Partnership held a Berry Festival in Market Square. Sand Hill Berries brought their amazing variety and exceptional quality berries, pies, jams and wine to celebrate the summer. Festival activities included:

- Berry Tasting
- Pie Contests
- Raffle Prizes
- Music
- Children's Area
- Pittsburgh Chess Club

Book Fair in the Square - Sunday, June 1

If you weren't in Market Square for the Book Fair, you missed a great event! Here's a recap of the days activities:

Participating vendors, including: Barnes and Noble at Duquesne University, Encyclopedia Destructica, Caliban Bookshop, and City Books, sold contemporary books, art books and used books. Barnes and Noble also hosted local author, Stuart Boehmig, for a signing of his book, "Downtown Pittsburgh."

Children enjoyed the "Children's Corner", presented by Gateway to the Arts. Story-teller Renae Neumeyer presented "Mother Goose on the Loose" and visual artist Allison Zapata lead a book-making activity.

Also on hand, was the Downtown branch of the Carnegie Library. They registered people for library cards and had materials ready for check out. The Pittsburgh Chess Club had two masters at the event, playing against tough challengers and eager first-timers, and helped children spark a passion for the game.
